

From: Raj Chand
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/21/02 12:20pm
Subject: Microsoft is being allowed to take over OPENGL with impunity

Hi,

OPENGL is the industry standard 3D language for 3D developers in fields as disparate as aeronautics and computer games. It is one of the few areas left which Microsoft do not have the monopoly on. Microsoft has its own proprietary language called Direct 3D. Yet they have just taken over the patents to Silicon Graphics' technologies including as I understand it OPENGL. This paves the way for Microsoft to kill OPENGL and force Direct 3D as the global standard giving them control over yet another market and unopposed sales of its X-box games system yet they have been allowed to do this with impunity even though they are under so called investigation. How is this possible? Do you not have truth and justice in the USA? Or is Microsoft so big now that they own everyone?

Greatly Insane